Established in 2017, The Western Sydney Youth Orchestra is a dynamic and vibrant ensemble dedicated to providing exceptional orchestral training to young musicians in Western Sydney. This orchestra offers members unparalleled opportunities for musical growth and expression, enriching the cultural landscape of the region.

Named after celebrated conductor, music educator, and Chief Conductor of The Sydney Youth Orchestra from 1977 - 1982, Richard Gill; This is the springboard to the SYO Symphonic Orchestral Program and is where many young musicians will experience playing in an orchestral setting for the first time. They focus on original orchestral and chamber music repertoire.
